THE DALLAS DAILY HERALD is published every afternoon, except Sunday, at 4 o'clock and served to city subscribers by carriers. Subscription price, fifty cents per month or five dollars per annum. When served by mail (whether daily or weekly editions) this includes postage anywhere in the United States or Canada. To subscribers in foreign countries additional postage is required. Try it.

THE DALLAS WEEKLY HERALD is printed every Friday morning at one dollar per annum or sixty cents for six months in advance and is served to subscribers by mail only. The WEEKLY HERALD is an eight page paper, containing the cream of the daily editions, made up with reference to the needs and convenience of country readers, especially for Dallas county people and for those of other states wanting information about Texas.

ADVERTISING RATES. Advertising rates, whether in Daily or weekly editions are reasonable and will be furnished on application to the business office. The daily edition has the largest circulation in the city of any paper published in Dallas and is therefore an excellent advertising medium. The weekly edition circulates in the country alone, and is one of the best channels in Dallas to reach the farmers. Reference is respectfully made to the leading mercantile houses in the city as to their experience advertising in the HERALD.

DEMOCRATIC. The HERALD is Democratic in politics, but conservative and fair. It deals with all current topics of the times, and its columns are ever lively, crisp and entertaining. As a clean paper it has its strongest support among the best people of Dallas and adjacent towns, being just the paper for the home circle after the work of the day is done. It covers the state general news field as thoroughly as the local and thus publishes all that is going on at home and abroad.

CORRESPONDENCE. Correspondence and news items are solicited. Correspondence must be accompanied by the writer's full name, not for publication unless desired, but as a guarantee of good faith. Write only on one side of one paper and to the point.

Thursday, Dec. 29, 1887.

THE San Antonio Times, special edition, was a handsome "piece of newspaper work" and contained a write-up of the city and country and their advantages and resources, creditable to the Times and valuable to the city. Ferguson is a rustler, and keeps the Times well to the front in state journalism.

ONLY about a dozen individuals and a few more corporations in Texas have sheep enough to be effected by a reduction of the protective tariff. The benefit to the mass of wool growers in the way of reduction in woolen goods, and other necessities, would more than off-set the few dollars a year they now derive from protection.

THE gubernatorial canvass in Louisiana is so warm that Frost refuses to pay his annual winter visit to that State. The Times-Democrat positively declares that McEnery has a majority of the instructed delegates, while the Picayune avers that Nichols is far in the lead. Only four or five prominent men have shot each other so far.

THE Prince of Wales expressed displeasure at the newspapers for publishing his visit to Jno. L. Sullivan, pugilist. The future King of Great Britain is evidently being made ashamed of the excessive attention he has shown the "American bruiser." The chunk of human nature which is a part of the composition of all men, varies in size and coarseness.

THE Examiner of Waco, publishes an editorial on Waco's outlook and possibilities under the title "Shall Waco lead the van or bring up the rear?" Well, if the HERALD were to respond it would say: Waco is too progressive to be caught far in the rear, and is not quite pert enough to keep pace with Dallas. But for this city Waco might soon lead the van; but as it is, she may come second.

LET some of the papers of Western Texas publish a careful estimate of the cost of planting ten or twenty acres of $2 land in young pecan trees, number of trees, yield, and the reasonably expected income therefrom in seven and ten years. The HERALD believes that a pecan grove of 10, 20 or 30 acres could be raised at much less cost, with greater certainty, and earlier and larger returns on the investment than orange orchards, or in fact, almost any other investment for a good and sure income.

THE Texas immigration movement originated with the Citizen's Association of San Antonio, the first regular organization for advertising purposes in the state. Mr. J. S. Daugherty, of Dallas, will probably bear out this assertion.—San Antonio Times.

With due respect to the Times, the HERALD says not so. San Antonio is not the only city which has an immigration society; and it is equally true that no one of them suggested or originated the present immigration organization. That was proposed at the Dallas meeting with our Mr. Daugherty as chairman. The move originated, or rather the move is the result of an agitation of the low rate and immigration question proposed by John Howard and carried out ably and unselfishly by the Fort Worth Gazette aided by the press of the state. Other papers had at various times advocated and urged measures to secure immigration, and there have been various active and useful county and city organizations; but San Antonio can not claim this boom as her baby, any more than she can accomplish anything at the dog-in-manger game.

THE San Antonio Times referring to the selection of the State Immigration committee man for that district from Pecos City, says he is too far away (and yet he is most convenient to the lands to be settled); that San Antonio need not be expected to put up money to settle that region to the exclusion of the Southwest, and that the Tom Green county people who elected the committeeman may attend to that. The San Antonio papers will no doubt be tempted to remind the San Antonians that no section or county of the west out of Bexar has contributed more to the commerce and prosperity of their city than the Tom Green county, and too that Col. Chilton, though living at Pecos City, is a representative man, capable and willing to represent this entire district. Away with such petty selfishness.

FROM the resolutions of the San Antonio Board of Trade which has inaugurated a Southwestern Immigration movement, it seems that it was not so much the selection of their district representative on the state committee from the northern edge of the district, as something else, which caused their dissatisfaction. The board resolved for congressional appropriation for deep water at Aransas Pass, and disapproved the resolution adopted at the Dallas State meeting favoring concentration of federal aid at Galveston.

THE nation's guardians at Washington are having a recess now, but on Monday the war will open. The Democrats want to make the tariff fly, and the Republicans want to continue to feather the nest of the manufacturers at the public expense.

Geneveive

Are cheap, are good; go for them. This marvelous and unrivalled brand has just made its appearance on the market, and its popularity is already unbounded. No cigar ever met with such an enthusiastic reception since the invention of tobacco. The doors hadn't been open ten minutes before the house was crowded, and the standing room was so full of eager purchasers that their feet stuck out through the transom. President Cleveland sent for the first box, and said he would rather be the man who made that cigar than to be president. To be had only at C. V. Waller's drug store, 720 Elm street.

Those who suffer from feverish and dry skin, and whose complexions are sallow, are the victims of derangement of the liver. Morris' Cascarine will speedily remove these disorders.
